BAYLES TO ATTEMPT TO SHATTER SPEED MARK AT CLEVELAND

Bayles Winner Of Thompson Trophy Seeking New Air Honors

CLEVELAND, Sept. 8.—Echoing the end of the 1931 national air races, the roar of two human-propelled bullets hurtling through the air attempting speeds never before attained, was to resound here today as the nucleus of plans for next year's aeronautical spectacle already was taking form.

Eight of the fastest racing planes ever built shot over a 100-mile course at breakneck speed almost as the sun was setting yesterday to bring to an end an unprecedented program of dazzling speed. The final event was the Thompson trophy race, greatest of all air speed dashes.

In the same trim and brightly colored racing craft with which they stroked to victory, each in the premiere race for their sex, Louis Bayles and Maude Tait, Springfield, Mass., speed sensations, were scheduled to attempt new American or world speed records at 6 p. m. today.

Bayles' initial record-seeking attempt in his yellow and black Gee Bee super sporter yesterday failed when the electrical timing apparatus failed to clock his fourth dash over the 3-kilometer course. Inefficiency of the timing system also forced Mrs. Tait to postpone her attempt to clip off a speed faster than the women's world mark of 210 miles an hour.

Major James H. (Jimmy) Doolittle, holder of the west-coast country speed mark, will not fly in an effort to better the existing record. Jimmy was forced out of the Thompson race yesterday after fifty miles when his motor slowed up.

Before this year's races were ended, guarantors and executives openly endorsed a rumored plan to cut the time of the races from ten days to a week or possibly six days. Aside from the fact that the program dragged over the long period, the daily overhead costs alone presented an undisputable argument for a time reduction, it was said.

Positive assurance that the races will be held here next year came yesterday when the executive committee posted the required $12,500 guaranty fund with the city. No date was set.

Bayles won the grinding 100-mile Charles E. Thompson trophy race, closing event of the national air races, Wednesday.

Bayles gunned his stubby, yellow Gee Bee super sporter around the ten laps of the ten mile course at a 236.29 miles an hour dash past the home pylon winner over J. R. Wedell of Patterson, La., by nearly ten miles an hour. Wedell, flying a plane of his own build, powered with the same type motor Bayles used, was clocked at 227.992 miles an hour.

Third place in the race went to Dale (Red) Jackson, St. Louis endurance pilot, with an average of 211.183 miles an hour. Jackson was flying the same Laird special plane which a year ago in Chicago won first place in the Thompson trophy with "Speed" Holman, now dead, at the stick.

Major James H. (Jimmy) Doolittle, who Friday set a new transcontinental speed record of eleven hours and fifteen minutes from Burbank, Cal., to Newark, N. J., was forced down with engine trouble during the seventh lap of the race. He was in second place, and picking up speed, when his motor started heating up and he was forced to land.

Bayles won $7,500 as well as the huge silver Thompson trophy for a year. Wedell got $4,500 as second money, and Jackson, third was paid $3,000.

All three of the leaders did well above last year's top speed of 201 miles an hour. Robert L. Hall, of Springfield, Mass., who designed the plane with which Bayles won the race, was fourth in the trophy grind, with a speed equal to last year's record.

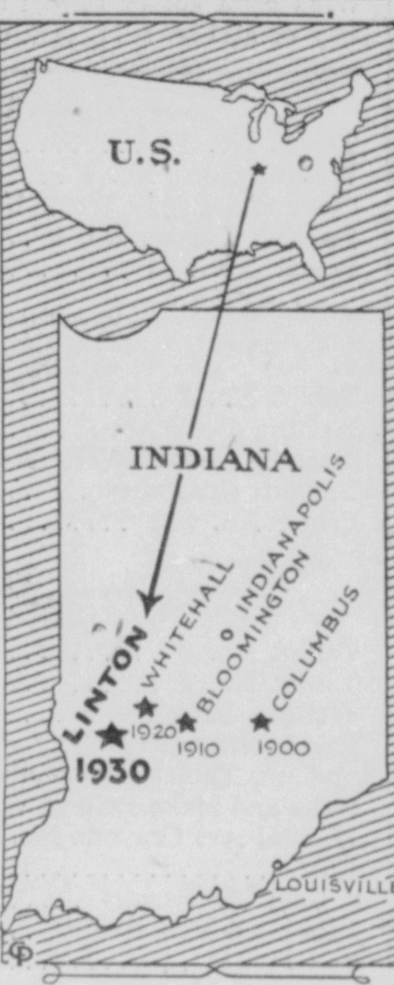

ASTRONOMERS TO SEE SOLAR ECLIPSE

DELAWARE, O., Sept. 8.—Star gazers discussed the visit of the solar eclipse, which is scheduled for next year, at the forty-sixth annual meeting of the American Astronomical Society here today.

A sixty-nine-inch mirror, the third largest of its kind, will be installed in time to observe the eclipse, scientists at Perkins Observatory, declared. The astronomers' meeting is being held at the observatory.

Many prominent astronomers from all parts of the United States gathered here for the meeting.

POPULATION CENTER

The bureau of census has announced that the new center of population of the United States now is 2.9 miles northeast of Linton, Ind. In 1790 the center of population was about twenty-three miles east of Baltimore, Md. The nearest large cities to the present center of population are Indianapolis, Ind., and Louisville, Ky.

DOUBLE HOLIDAY IS BLAMED FOR TRAGIC DEATHS OVER STATE

Four Commit Suicide; Other Victims Of Holiday Traffic

By International News Service
Weekend and holiday automobile accidents, drownings, shootings, and suicides took the lives of a dozen Ohioans, a check-up by International News Service showed today.

Four persons including a 15-year-old boy, committed suicide, according to police records.

After an argument with his brother, Alex Rosenfeld, 15, a student in a Columbus Junior high school, hanged himself with a clothesline in the attic of his home.

First shutting himself in a barn, which he then set on fire, Rosa Morgan, poolroom operator of near Sidney, fatally shot himself with a rifle, police said. Morgan's body was found in the ruins of the barn.

Using a stick to pull the trigger, Miss Florence Shride, 47, of near Tarleton, shot herself at her home because she was suffering from ill health according to the coroner's verdict. John Meyers, 74, jumped off a steamer on an excursion trip near Cedar Point in Lake Erie and was drowned.

Miss Evangeline Reams, Columbus social worker and founder of the Friends' rescue home, was struck and killed by an automobile at Marion, Ind. More than 1,700 girls had been cared for at the home she founded.

During an automobile ride at Columbus, William T. Holland, 25, was fatally shot in the back. Police indicated they would file charges against a watchman, Charles C. Burns, said to have been his life-long friend.

Four persons were killed in automobile accidents near Cincinnati. Two men killed in one accident, near Sharonville, were not identified. Woodrow McCracken, 18, and Jimmie Cummins, 19, were victims of a crash near Mayville, Ky.

George Dorn of Sidney was killed when his car upset near Van Wert, and Mrs. May Vlau, 25, lost her life near Toledo in other automobile accidents.

Scores of other persons were injured in various types of accidents, including L. Richard Bennett, a member of the crew of the new navy dirigible Akron, who was hurt when a glider crashed. The glider was pulled to the ground when a tow rope failed to release, and Bennett suffered a broken leg.

TREASURY BALANCE

GARWOOD STRATEGY GIVES HARMSWORTH TROPHY TO AMERICA

Admits False Start Done Purposely To Disqualify Don

DETROIT, Sept. 8.—Strategy born of the refusal of the British challenger, Kaye Don, to permit a forty-five minute delay in the international motor boat races on the historic Detroit river here, today had given Gar Wood the coveted Harmsworth trophy. The second and last heat of the classic occurred yesterday when the 200,000 people who lined both banks of the river were provided with never-to-be-forgotten thrills.

Wood's Miss America IX is still Harmsworth champion and Miss England II is being fished out of the river. Two false starts, which resulted in the disqualification of both Miss America IX and Miss England II, gave the second heat victory to Wood's second entry, Miss America VIII.

As a result of the double disqualification, the race became "no match" under the rules of the British international trophy deed of the plaque and Miss America IX retained the prize by virtue of winning it last year. Miss England II overturned and sank on the first lap after cutting a buoy too closely and was caught in the wash waves of Miss America IX.

Wood said: "Sure I'm happy. I asked for a postponement of forty-five minutes because of a leaky gas tank in Miss America IX. There was a crack six inches long in the tank. My request was denied and it made me angry."

When Eddie Edenburg, chairman of the race committee, told me Don would not agree to a forty-five minute delay I told him that I could have the tank repaired in time. I was coming down the river and made a false start purposely. I told him when I did, Don would follow me."

"I had a good chance to beat him if I got across the line first. I knew he would be anxious to get the break on the start."

"If he did I knew it meant disqualification of both Miss America IX and Miss England II, but there was still Miss America VIII to finish the race. If Don wanted to play that way with me all right, figured I could outsmart him and you know what happened. He followed me across the starting line ahead of time and we kept the trophy."

Don, the English challenger said: "We were asked to postpone the start of the race. I had agreed to the postponement, the forty-five minute delay would have caused the oil in the engine to cool and I should have had to cruise along the first lap until it reached the right temperature before gaining my full speed."

"If Mr. Gar Wood had only one boat in the race I should have been willing to agree to the postponement, even for a day, but Miss America VIII was ready and I felt that it was not unfair to refuse Mr. Wood's request."

"As for Mr. Wood beating the gun and I following him, there is nothing to say but that it was my hard luck. Rules are rules. I hope to be back in the Harmsworth trophy race again next year."

TWO KILLED AS AUTO HITS CAR

Fear Three Others Are Fatally Hurt

MARTINS FERRY, O., Sept. 8.—An Ohio man and woman were killed today and three others were believed fatally injured when an automobile in which they were riding got out of control on the Ohio River highway, two miles north of here, plunged down an embankment and was struck by a street car.

The victims were Mrs. Hazel Goodwin, 24, of Canton, and Albert Catlett, 36, of Cleveland. Those believed dying were Homer Evans, 22, the driver; his mother, Mrs. Maude Evans, 48, and a sister, Florence, 8, all of Cleveland. Catherine Swartz, 8, of Tiltonville, was slightly injured.

The group was enroute from the Wheeling State Fair to the home of friends in Rayland, O., when the accident occurred. Police were unable to learn what caused the driver to lose control of the machine and plunge onto the tracks directly in front of the oncoming trolley.

SOMEONE CHEATS

OSHING, N. Y., Sept. 8.—The annual Labor Day tug of war at Sing Sing Prison was ruled no contest today "because of cheating."

Shortly after a team of twelve white men and twelve Negroes began tugging, it was discovered there were eighteen men in the white crew and seventeen on the colored side.

The referee said every few minutes each team had augmented its ranks as new men slipped into line from the crowd of spectators.

Religious Fervor Prompted Daughter Of British AMERICANS HOPE TO LINK NATIONS WITH FIRST PLANE ROUTE

By EDITH HOWITT
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent
BOARD S. S. RAJPUTANA.

Sept. 8.—A new-found religious fervor prompted Miss Madeline Slade, daughter of a British admiral, to renounce a life of ease to devote herself to the service of Mahatma M. K. Gandhi, the attractive English girl revealed to International News Service today.

Journeying to London with Gandhi to attend the round table conference, Miss Slade told how she had come to shave her head, to wear coarse cotton garments and to spend every moment of her waking hours waiting upon the little man who is attempting to lead India's millions to freedom.

Miss Slade consented to the interview on condition that French was spoken. She wished to become familiar with that tongue, she said. In order to facilitate the Mahatma's journey across France en route to London—a journey that may be disrupted by the French authorities.

Her attraction to Gandhi, she declared was purely a "religious one."

"All religions are equally good," she said. "I did not change mine to join the Nationalist movement, because before adopting Gandhism I had no religious beliefs of my own."

"Now I am happy and peaceful in mind. Life is not hard. My inspiration carries me over any difficulties that present themselves."

"The modern world is materialistic. It needs the leavening of mysticism. Gandhi is a practical mystic."

The criticism of those who think it is unusual for a cultured English girl to embrace Hinduism and become the servant of a "prophet" has not affected Miss Slade's enthusiasm for her calling, she said.

"I have not suffered from ostracism," she said. "This is the first time in six years that I have associated with Europeans, but I feel absolutely no desire to return."

"The British," she continued, "are acceptable to India if they will treat Indians on equal terms but they acquire a superiority complex."

"My brother-in-law, really the most decent fellow, became auto-critic through fifteen years association with the civil service in India. I visited him in Madras, and found he wasn't the least anxious to advertise his relationship with me."

Describing the home life of Gandhi and his intimate followers at Ahmedabad, Miss Slade declared that their existence was simple in the extreme.

"They eat the cheapest food," she said. "Medical attention is not encouraged. Illness is treated by herbs, and has proved efficacious in ordinary cases. Very rarely is any other method used save in surgical cases."

Shortly after the Rajputana left Port Said, it was learned from a reliable source that the French authorities were not anxious to allow Gandhi transit across France and may refuse him permission to visit at Marseilles.

The Mahatma had no comment to make on the report, but dismay was plainly discernible among members of his party.

REVISED CREDIT SYSTEM IS REMEDY OF DEPRESSION CLAIMS "ALFALFA BILL"

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent
Copyright 1931, By I. N. S.

CHICAGO, Sept. 8.—William H. (Alfalfa Bill) Murray, picturesque governor of Oklahoma and advocate of the cause of the common people predicted in an exclusive interview today that the winter will be hard, but if the country goes at it right a constructive start can be made toward a more prosperous era.

Governor Murray's chief remedy for the current depression is the correction of the alleged ills of America's credit system so that it will be easier for "the little business man" to obtain loans from the banks so as to further his business and automatically relieve the unemployment problem. For, as the governor pointed out, the small business man will employ more men proportionally than the big business man.

Beer isn't the all-consuming desire of the American workman today, he said. What the laborer is thinking and worrying about is "bread and butter, bacon and beans." This, incidentally, happens to be the governor's slogan and it's somewhat reminiscent of the "full dinner pail" cry of the gay nineties.

The governor lay in bed with his clothes on and one shoe off as he expounded his views. He was relaxing at his hotel, after having delivered a speech. He is 61 years old, tall, slender and wiry. A pair of keen blue eyes set off his lean, intelligent countenance. He had a shock of gray hair and bushy eyebrows, half-brown mustache. On a chair nearby was his sombrero. He wears calzones. He was smoking a cigar.

Governor Murray evaded questions designed to bring out whether or not he intended to run for president. Politicians, he explained, have with few exceptions, nominated presidents, and then got their best services. Andrew Jackson and Abraham Lincoln, he said, were "notable exceptions." The governor said that were he to become president, "the most vitriolic attack ever known in American politics would be turned loose against me."

Unless he is convinced, the governor said, that the people intend in 1932 to nominate the president he would not be disposed to lay himself open to such an attack. Indeed, he has no ambition "except to serve and to accomplish things."

As for politicians, he said it was his experience that politicians "will sell their soul for a public office."

America's crime wave is not due to the speakeasies and other outgrowths of prohibition, in his opinion. Economic conditions had more to do with it, he thought. He pointed out that "after every war there are periods of criminality and immorality."

He spoke of his fight to raise the price of oil in Oklahoma and his shutting of the oil wells by the militia. The price is now eighty-two cents but the oil will remain in the ground until it comes up to $1, he said.

Governor Murray said public officials of all states should take cognizance of the prospect of a hard winter on the unemployed whom he now estimates to number 7,000,000. He said that in Oklahoma last year he had an extra tax put on gasoline that will net $1,250,000 by January. He expects this sum to be matched dollar for dollar by the counties and towns of Oklahoma to help relieve the situation this winter. The governor is also a moving spirit in the conference on unemployed called for St. Louis, September 25.

Friends of the governor have referred to him as the greatest fighter for the common people since Andrew Jackson.

POWERS DEFENSE APPEALS TO PRESIDENT; TO QUESTION WIFE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—President Hoover has been asked to intercede to obtain "justice" for Harry Powers, the bluebeard slayer of West Virginia. It was learned today.

Counsel for the matrimonial agency Lothario wrote President Hoover complaining vigorously over the alleged third degree treatment accorded him, and demanding an investigation of the circumstances that led up to his purported confession.

The letter, signed by J. E. Law, counsel for Powers, was merely acknowledged by a White House secretary and forwarded to the department of justice for whatever action is deemed necessary.

The department has taken no action, and it was indicated today there is very little prospect of the department's interesting itself in the matter.

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Sept. 8.—Startling and new developments in the case of Harry Powers, bluebeard murderer, were promised by authorities today with the grim searchlight of the law focused upon the wife and sister-in-law of the prisoner—"Lulu" Powers and Miss Eva Bell Strother.

"These women will be closely questioned today," Chief of Police Duckworth told International News Service.

In addition, an affidavit will be filed in court today, according to Sheriff Wilford B. Brimm, charging that Powers, alias Cornelius Pierson, defrauded Mrs. Dorothy Lemke, fifth victim of the mail-order butcher, of $15,000.

The affidavit charges that the money belonging to Mrs. Lemke was transferred by Powers to the two women, who knew the money was stolen and fraudulently obtained.

UNUSUAL HEAT HITS MID-WEST

CHICAGO, Sept. 8.—Unusual September heat gripped the west central states again today.

Bismarck, N. D., had the highest temperature, 104 degrees, with Moorehead, Minn., at 102 in the shade. Ninety degree readings prevailed over Minnesota, the Dakotas, Kansas and parts of Iowa and Nebraska.

NAVY FLYER HURT IN GLIDER CRASH

AKRON, O., Sept. 8.—Lieutenant Richard Bennett, U. S. N., a member of the crew of the U. S. Airship, Akron, who was seriously hurt at municipal airport late yesterday when his glider crashed to the ground, was reported recovering today.

Attaches at City Hospital where Bennett was taken said a cursory examination revealed the navy officer was suffering from a broken pelvis and possible internal injuries.

Witnesses at the airport said Bennett was unable to cut his craft loose from the takeoff rope, the other end of which was hooked onto an automobile, and the glider nose-dived to the ground.

AKRON'S GALLEY READY FOR COOK

Step right into the galley, ladies and gentlemen! This is the cook's province on the U. S. S. Akron, the navy's new dirigible, which is being built at the Goodyear-Zeppelin dock, Akron, O., and soon will be turned over to the navy. Stove and utensils are of duralumin, the same light metal of which the airship is made.

DRIVE DESIGNED TO SELL PROHIBITION TO COUNTRY STARTS

ALLIED DRY FORCES LAUNCH Rally To Plan Campaign

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 8.—A nationwide campaign designed to "re-sell prohibition to the country" was launched here today with a three-day rally under the auspices of the allied forces for prohibition.

The allied forces comprise the Anti-Saloon League, The W. C. T. U., and numerous other dry societies. The organization, set up last June, is temporary and is headed by Dr. Daniel A. Poling of New York, a former Ohioan. It will continue to operate until next June when the major political parties hold their national conventions.

According to officials of the organization, the purpose of the campaign is to stir up latent support for prohibition and to bring about the nomination of prohibitionists for President and Vice President.

After the meeting here, sessions of a similar nature will be held in each capital of the forty-eight states and in other cities throughout the nation.

Today's opening session of the campaign was observed as "Youth Day." A banquet will be held this evening with Robert C. Ropp of New York, scheduled as the principal speaker.

Among the prominent dry-leaders who will speak during the rally sessions are: Oliver C. Stewart of Chicago; Miss Norma C. Brown of New York; Raymond Robbins of Chicago; Ira C. Landrith of Lansing, Mich.; Charles F. Evans of Boston; W. Roy Breg of Atlanta and Harold W. Slinger of Kansas City.

THREE CHILDREN PERISH WHEN FLAMES DESTROY FARM HOUSE

NORTHBORO, Mass., Sept. 8.—Three children were burned to death here today when flames destroyed the farmhouse in which they lived. Two others were burned severely but were rescued by their mother, Mrs. Mary Quimet.

The dead are Irene, four; Noella, three, and Paul, two. They were sleeping on the second floor of the building when the fire, which spread from an oil stove lighted by their father, Louis Quimet, swept the farmhouse. Mrs. Quimet was able to rescue Louis, Jr., five, and Alphonse, six, who slept on the ground floor but was driven back by the flames when she attempted to reach the others.

AMERICANS HOPE TO LINK NATIONS WITH FIRST PLANE ROUTE

Ignore Fog Reports; Plane Not Equipped With Radio

TOKYO, Sept. 8.—In a reconditioned plane unequipped with radio, two daring American airmen were believed far out over the Pacific ocean today on an attempt to link Japan and the United States in a nonstop flight, a feat never yet accomplished by any flyer.

The adventurers were Don Moyle and Cecil A. Allen, young California fliers, who left Samushiro Beach at 5:50 a. m. Tokyo time today (8:30 p. m. Monday Eastern Standard Saving Time) for Seattle, Washington, 4,465 miles distant.

Bidding for the $25,000 prize offered by the Tokyo newspaper "Asahi" and other trophies posted for the first successful nonstop transpacific flight, the aviators took advantage of the first favorable weather reports and turned their planes nose out over the sea with an absolute absence of fanfare or ceremony.

One hour and ten minutes after their departure, they swept over Cape Ermo and headed out over the uncharted aerial lanes of the Pacific. The powerful Ochi-Ishi wireless station in Tokyo received the report of their sighting over Ermo and then announced it would be unlikely they would be heard from again until they reached the American coast unless they happened across some steamer plying between the Orient and the occident.

Carrying sufficient gasoline for forty-seven hours of flying, Moyle and Allen hoped to reach Seattle within forty hours, which would land them at their goal around eleven a. m. (EST) Wednesday.

Serious obstacles in the way of unfavorable weather conditions lay in the path of the flyers both at the start and near the finish of their projected flight.

Dense fogs and rain-squalls prevailed in the vicinity of the Kurile Islands, which lay ahead of Moyle and Allen immediately after passing Cape Ermo.

On the North American side of the Pacific, similar conditions prevailed, according to special reports received by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, who was watching the progress of the flight with keen interest.

If the flight is successful, it will rank with the New York to Paris journey of Col. Lindbergh as one of the most brilliant long-distance hops of all time. The treacherous Pacific weather, coupled with the

AKRON MAN BOOMED FOR STATE OFFICE

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 8.—A boom for I. S. Myers of Akron for state conservation commissioner to succeed J. W. Thompson of Elida, who recently resigned at the request of the state conservation council, has been started by Myers' friends in the League of Ohio Sportsmen. It became known here today.

Long a leader in conservation, Myers has been the president of the League of Ohio Sportsmen most of the time since it was organized twenty years ago. He formerly was mayor of Akron and is a member of the conservation council.

On the old state board of agriculture he was one of the first men to represent state fish and game interests.

Problems of policy, along with the selection of a new commissioner, are expected to come before his council at a meeting at Sandusky Friday.

FLYER IS SAFE

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—Miss Manila Davis, missing West Virginia flyer, was safe in New York today. She had been missing for hours after failing to arrive on schedule from the Cleveland air show, finally arriving at Hasbrouck Heights, N. J., last evening. Miss Davis said she was delayed when forced down several times by a leaking gas tank.

TIME A GOOD SURGEON
WEIRTON, W. VA., Sept. 8.—For six years a piece of barbed wire was in the foot of Miss Marion Meckling, now 15, giving her sporadic pain. It entered her back when she was a child. Recently it was discovered that the rusted bit of wire had worked its way to the heel. Her mother removed it with a pair of tweezers.

AT 101, LIKES RADIO
NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sept. 8.—Mrs. Harriet Smith is 101 years old. Mrs. Smith gets her entertainment from listening to the radio. She was born in New Hampshire but lived most of her life in Simsbury, Conn. A son, who is a doctor here, sees his mother daily.

MINISTERS MEET
LAKESIDE, O., Sept. 8.—With many of the 500 ministers and superintendents of the nine conference districts present, the twenty-ninth annual session of the northeast Ohio conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church opened here today.

DEATH CLAIMS E. E. VANDERVORT; PLAN FUNERAL THURSDAY

Emerson E. Vandervort, 71, farmer prominent in the New Burlington neighborhood, died at his home Monday evening at 6:15 o'clock. A complication of diseases was the cause of death. He had been confined to his bed three weeks.

Mr. Vandervort was born at New Antioch, Clinton County, April 19, 1860, the son of John and Martha Vandervort and had resided on the farm where he died forty years. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Josephine C. Vandervort and the following children: Mrs. A. A. Conklin, Kenia; Dr. Paul Vandervort, Wilmington; Mrs. R. H. Neubrecht, Detroit, Mich.; and Charles, at home. Two brothers, Charles F. Vandervort, Wilmington, who is proprietor of the Jamestown cannery and John B. Vandervort, also of Wilmington, and a sister, Miss Mary Vandervort, who has made her home with her brother for ten years, also survive besides eight grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at the home Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock in charge of the Rev. J. O. Kilmer, pastor of the M. E. Church, New Burlington and burial will be made in Sugar Grove Cemetery, Wilmington.

SOVIET ENGINEER PROTESTS, FIRED

MOSCOW, Sept. 8.—At a meeting of the board of the shipbuilding trust presided over by Valerian I. Mejlauk, member of the Collegium of the Supreme Economic Council, the Council's decision to move the trust to Nizhni was announced.

The chief engineer, Mr. M. Potapov, rose to state that he considered the decision unwise and that neither he nor other engineers would go to Nizhni to work for the trust. Mejlauk, who recently appealed to the country for a more tolerant attitude towards engineers, interrupted Potapov's discourse and said:

"We cannot tolerate employees like you in socialist industry."

Mejlauk fired Potapov on the spot, and later the Supreme Economic Council put the verbal discharge in writing, saying that Potapov was ousted for disobeying an order of the council for "selfish" motives. Other employees of the Trust passed a resolution the following day denouncing Potapov and declaring themselves willing to work wherever they might be sent.

TO AID FARMERS

PIERRE, S. D., Sept. 8.—Relief for the drought and grasshopper stricken farmers of South Dakota is provided for in a plan of highway work outlined by Gov. Warren Green. He intends to substitute man power for machinery as far as possible and to award the work only to permanent residents who have actually suffered from distressing conditions prevalent in the state because of the raids of grasshoppers or the crop losses occasioned by drought.

No More Neuritis
In Arms, Neck, Legs or Thighs
If you want to get rid of the agonizing pains of neuritis, neuralgia, sciatica or rheumatism, just apply Tyrolol to the affected parts and see how quickly all misery will cease.
Tyrolol is a powerfully penetrating absorbent, soothing and healing in its action, which goes in through the pores and quickly reaches the burning, aching nerves. Those stubborn pains in the back of the neck, about the shoulder blade, face or head, in the forearm and fingers, or extending down the thigh to the toe tips, will soon disappear. Cramping of the muscles will stop, and you will no longer be bothered with soreness, swelling, stiffness, numbness or tenderness of the joints and ligaments.
Tyrolol is not an ordinary liniment or salve, but a scientific new emollient that is entirely different from anything you have ever used. Don't suffer any longer. Get a supply of Tyrolol at any good drug store. Always on hand at

SMART WOMEN WEAR PAJAMAS MORNING, NOON AND EVENING

By ALICE LANGELEIR
PARIS, Sept. 8.—The possibility of pajamas finding a permanent place in the feminine wardrobe is becoming more and more inevitable as smart women are donning them for wear during almost every hour of the day.

Beginning with night pajamas, they rapidly gained favor for seaside wear, winter-sports and evening. One of the prominent Parisian fashion-makers is showing designs for the widow's pyjama-weeds, lovely satin ones in white for the blushing bride, black satin for the maid and practical checked ones for the house-jantriss, the "condierge", as the French call this bugbear.

Madame Lelia Pavlova, well-known Russian artist, has been wearing cubist pajamas in black, red and yellow for afternoon promenades at Aix-les-Bains this summer and Jenny Dolly, of "sister" fame, holiday making on the Riviera, has chosen crimson silk ones with a five-inch band of black fox fur at the bottom. The hip-length black silk coat is also bordered with black fox and there is a crimson belt.

Mary Nowitsky calls a charming pyjama suit "peanut vendor" which comes in pale brown plaid of silk and wool. Another has a velvet bodice tightly fitted and buttoned close in red and black old-fashioned plaid, the loose pants to go with it are of light marocain.

Mrs. Attilio Caprile won the first prize on Lido night at Aix-les-Bains in her very wide white silk trousers with multi-colored jacket and ermine on the sleeves. Mrs. Oscar Lang came second with wide trousers and blue chiffon jacket.

WORK had been scarce for George Johnson, but he knew that he was in as good a position as anyone to get a job when it was available. He'd left his telephone number with all the contractors who'd previously employed him as a carpenter, and from time to time he received calls for short jobs.

The other night the foreman for one of his former employers called him about a job that will last until next spring, at least. George was on the job the next morning, ready for work.

The man who can be reached by telephone gets a job first, or gets the most work. Men in business today use the telephone—it is the logical way to get in touch with others.

Country Club Members Enjoy Holiday Here

COUNTRY Club members enjoyed a day centered at the Xenia Country Club where a delightful holiday outing was held. Between 100 and 150 members and guests visited the club during the day and took part in various tournaments planned for the affair.

Golf and tennis tournaments were the highlights of the program. Because of the large list of entries in the tennis matches play was started last week and in the final Monday evening Mr. Lawrence Hibbert and Miss Eleanor McKay were winners. Mrs. Paul B. Yockey was chairman of these matches.

Separate golf tournaments for both men and women were played during the morning and afternoon. Mr. E. H. Heathman and Mr. Edward Flynn tied in a handicap tournament and the women's "blind put" tournament was won by Mrs. Mary M. Meredith. Mr. S. M. McKay was in charge of the men's division while Miss Betty Kingsbury directed the women's division.

A putting tournament in which thirty-seven were entered was another interesting event. Mrs. Henry C. Flynn and Mr. George Hult were winners in this match and were presented prizes. Mr. Henry C. Flynn was chairman of the putting tournament. The croquet

HONORED WITH SURPRISE PARTY ON BIRTHDAY HERE.

Honoring his birthday a group of friends and relatives delightfully surprised Mr. Harry Jay at his home on S. Detroit St., Friday evening. A six o'clock dinner was served and watermelon was served later in the evening. Following dinner six tables of cards were in play.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Buck, Mrs. Anna Yeakley, Mrs. Lizzie Floscher, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel H. Faulkner, Mr. and Mrs. James Devos, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Coy, Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Hisey, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Leopold, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Jun, Mrs. Ida Gordon, Miss Ruth Yeakley, Miss Jerry Jun, Miss Hilda M. Devos, Miss Evelyn Jay, Mr. Charles V. Jay, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Jay, all of this city; Mr. Harold Rahn, Yellow Springs; Mr. and Mrs. John Moots and three children, Mr. Walter Leopold, Dayton; and Miss Janet Deems, Columbus.

KREPPS FAMILY HAS REUNION HERE.

Mr. Harvey Fulkerson was re-elected president of the reunion association of the Krepps family at its annual reunion in Shawnee Park Labor Day. Other officers re-elected were Mrs. John Harner, vice president; Mrs. Earl Soward, secretary and Miss Eva Crumley, treasurer.

Seventy-five members and friends of the family were present from Warren County, Oxford, Middletown, Dayton, Greenville, Cleveland, Beavertown, Richmond, Ind. and Xenia. A picnic dinner was served at noon and in the afternoon various games, stunts and a social hour were enjoyed. Prizes for the stunts were awarded Mrs. James Ryan and Mrs. Elton Haines. The reunion of the family in 1932 will be held at Shawnee Park it was announced.

SOCIETY ENJOYS ANNUAL BREAKFAST.

Thirty-eight members of Lal Bagh Missionary Society of Trinity M. E. Church enjoyed a breakfast at the home of Mrs. Brant U. Bell, Hill St., Monday morning. The breakfast is an annual affair and marks the closing of the society's calendar year. Breakfast was served at 8:30 o'clock and guests were seated at small tables.

Following the breakfast annual reports were given and letters were read from missionaries in India, Korea and Japan. Fourteen members who were present at all meetings during the year were recognized at the meeting. Mrs. F. C. Bishop's group led in having the largest number of members present during the year.

The society's new year will start in October and Mrs. C. N. Christman, Dayton, will give a talk on "Peace" Place of the meeting will be announced later.

CHARLES ADAIR JR. TO PRESENT RECITAL.

Charles Adair Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Adair, N. Galloway St., will be presented in an organ recital by his teacher, Miss Juanita Rankin, Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock at Christ Episcopal Church, E. Church St. Interested persons are cordially invited.

The following program will be presented: "Sonata in C Minor" — Guilman; "Allegro maestoso" — Sturges; "Duke Street" — Whiting; "Believe Me with All Those Endearing Young Charms" — Transcribed by Lemare; "Majesty of the Deep" — Hamer; "The Wind in the Chimney, Clokey"; "Grandmother Knitting" — Clokey; "Toccata" — Rogers.

SOCIETY MEMBERS TO CAN FRUIT WEDNESDAY

In connection with the "Save the Surplus" campaign in Xenia and Greene County members of the Ladies Aid Society of the Presbyterian Church will meet at the church Wednesday to can fruit. Plans for this work were made at a meeting of the society Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Puri E. Cox, N. King St.

Women are to meet at the church in the morning and are to bring a paring knife and any surplus fruit, sugar or cans and jars that they may have.

HONOR ROLL PARTY IS HELD SATURDAY

Children and teachers of Christ Episcopal Sunday School enjoyed themselves at an honor roll party in the Parish House Saturday afternoon. Various games and contests were enjoyed and later ice cream and cake were served.

Those who were placed on the honor roll as being the ten highest in point of attendance and class work during the summer were Caroline Anderson, Earl Wilson, Martha Jane Anderson, Vernon Thomas, James Thomas, Donald Brown, Phyllis Thomas, Marjorie Brown, David Adair and Daniel Anderson.

The church council of the Presbyterian Church will meet Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the church, Market and King Sts. The council includes the joint boards, the superintendent and secretary of the Sunday School and the president and secretary of each organization of the church. The meeting will begin promptly with a short devotional service in connection with the midweek service and immediately following plans will be completed for the celebration of the nineteenth anniversary of the church.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

And the work of the righteousness shall be peace; and the effect of righteousness, quietness and assurance for ever.—Isaiah, xxxii, 17.

IMPORTANT LANDMARK

An important landmark in the alimentary canal is the irregular pear-shaped bag, situated in the upper and left part of the abdomen. Its name is stomach, affectionately referred to as "tummy" or "tumbur." Until recent years, particularly in England, public or social mention of its existence was the last word in vulgarity. Nowadays we are less squeamish, having decided that so vital a portion of the human anatomy should not be ignored for shame or false modesty.

A great general once admitted the contribution of the perfectly-functioning stomach to the general well-being of the individual in the statement that "an army travels on its stomach." These days it is conceded that not only the fighters of the world's military battles, but those who engage in its economic struggles must be properly nourished if they are to succeed. An alphabetical list of vitamins, with the foods in which they are contained, now stands as guide to the well-balanced diet.

Over in Australia scientists lately claim that the Australian expeditionary forces lost the battle of Gallipoli because vitamin B was lacking in the service rations. The enemy within their own "little Marys" defeated them with severe digestive disturbance and physical exhaustion.

In Chicago a man suffering for years from stomach disorders has offered himself as a laboratory. For months he has been enjoying a ration of metal pellets, glass beads, knotted thread and twine, mixed with his usual fare. Just how this will aid in determining a cure for indigestion, we cannot say. But such is the noble purpose of the experiment. Graduated from gold, solid rubber and other delicacies, he will doubtless progress to the consumption of bride's biscuits, soggy pie crust and underdone dumplings, with which the average stomach has had more and woe-filled experience.

Meanwhile the sale of soda bicarbonate goes merrily on, in the interests of that much traveled upon subdivision of the digestive tract.

THE GIGOLO

Although the word "gigolo" does not appear in English, French or Italian dictionaries, the individual who bears this somewhat ambiguous appellation has taken a place in modern society. Europe has known of him for some years. Now a Chicago cafe owner proposes to put gigolos, preferably American-born and college-bred on the cafe's payroll.

The accepted derivation of "gigolo" is from the French "gigue," or "gig," the dance of that name; "gigolo" also meaning shank or leg. Hence a gigolo is one who dances, but more specifically one who sells his services as a dancing partner.

The dearth of personable young men directly after the World War resulted in a more tolerant attitude on the part of society toward unescorted women in public places, especially after the dinner hours. Years have passed, but women continue to go about without male escorts. Meanwhile the gigolo, usually a youth of Latin extraction, such being notoriously good dancers, appeared on the social horizon in Europe. There the gigolo is always paid by the woman for whom he is professional escort, and sometimes certain December and May alliances between lonely women of means and men years their junior cast approval upon the gigolo's method of earning a living. No doubt there has been enough knavery involved in may cases to justify criticism.

The Anglo-Saxon twist to the situation, while recognizing the social phenomenon which has called forth the gigolo, gives him the dignity of a salaried position. As a dancing partner his presence will be a courtesy of the house.

Red-blooded he-men may sneer, women with escorts of their own may pity, but the gigolo remains a testimonial of the surging loneliness of human hearts pathetically eager to enjoy life's lighter moments, the forgetfulness of self under the charm of music and dancing. The gigolo's existence suggests social maladjustment somewhere. But the new dictionaries will have to make room for him because he is a sign of our times.

THE LAW OF SILENCE

A law of silence seals the lips of gangsters and gunmen. It is exceedingly difficult to induce them when caught, even when injured and in danger of death, to reveal who their associates are. They refuse to tell the facts by which these gangs could be broken up.

Is this the so-called "honor among thieves?" Probably there is little honor about it. They fear that if they give information, they will be some day "put on the spot."

How to break this law of silence is the problem for the detectives. The more relentlessly crime is pursued, the more the laws make it easy to convict a criminal, the more readily the captured crook will turn against his debased friends.

After all, Mayor Walker has been having a quieter time in Europe than some of the people who try to live by the "sidewalks of New York" have been having, what with racketeers, gunmen and such like.

The Wicksham report should warn aliens not to come to this country if they want to bring up their children to be honest and decent.

The summer tourists are coming back from Russia to give us another annual dose of hopelessly mixed and contradictory impressions.

Nobody longs for cold weather and frost the way a real hayfeverite does.

Sometimes we envy those who seek refuge in the jungles of Africa or South America, where there is nothing more poisonous or deadly than the people and things that can be found in the moral jungles of this country.

Moscow is trying to clean up the red secret police but it never can wash away the blood stains and make them white.

MY NEW YORK

BY JAMES ASWELL

VIENNESE IMPRESSIONS

There is in Vienna a vast sadness. The Viennese are a gentle, courteous folk, fond of simple pleasures and romance; they are stunned by the black gusts of unemployment, unrest and misery which have blown through their town.

But gaiety is there too. And beautiful women! With the possible exception of Copenhagen, the streets of Vienna display a higher percentage of absolute knockouts than any town this side of the Atlantic. Cool, dazzling Nordic blondes and sleek-haired brunettes from the East. Here they tell me, is the last outpost of Western civilization. Some master press-agent appears to have marshalled the flower of femininity to decorate the frontier. Gaiety is here. It is, perhaps, a defiant gaiety; but the gloom in the air has not communicated itself to the faces of the inhabitants in their off hours. The boulevards rustle with laughter.

FOR VISITORS WELL HEeled

For visitors—presumably well-heeled—there are the Moulin Rouge, the Casino and the Femina, all cabarets featuring floor shows with plenty of songs in English. The Femina is the most attractive and inexpensive of the bunch. The eight or ten girls who take part in the show are the most uniformly lovely collection I have ever seen. They make Messrs. Ziegfeld and Carroll appear only so-so as pickers.

NO DEPRESSION HERE

Despite the forty-odd steamship sailings to and from American ports which I understand have been cancelled due to slack bookings during the last few months, there is no dearth of Americans in Vienna. And English is spoken much more widely in the central part of the town, anyway, than in the corresponding neighborhood of Paris.

The Krantz Ambassador and the Grand Hotel, two of the principal havens for Americans, have been doing capacity for two months. I am glad—that we have found in this city of wistfully decaying grandeur the veritable charm which Paris undoubtedly once had and lost by being too greedy in its exploitation. The Viennese will never do that.

PHONE CALLS FROM WOODS

That in certain sections of Europe there are coin-box telephones in the middle of fields and forests every few miles . . .

That you can get a table d'hôte for 28c in most Viennese restaurants, but that excellent food costs about what it does every where else . . .

That many European movie houses so advertise films that their American origin is obscured . . .

SUN'S RELATION TO CLIMATE

It is to be remembered that the whole system of climate, winds and weather experienced upon the earth is due to the sun's radiation. Accurate computing reveals that the energy involved in the radiation activity of the sun amounts to 84,000 horsepower per minute for every square meter (10.76 square feet). If the atmosphere around the earth did not absorb any of the sun's radiation, a vertical sun would melt a layer of ice five-eighths of an inch thick in an hour, or a layer of ice covering the entire earth's surface 114 feet thick, in one year. The solar constant (intensity at earth's mean distance) is 2 per cent greater in numerous sun-spot years.

It is estimated that close to $750,000,000 a year is expended by American women for the services of beauty shops and the purchase of materials for beautification.

ANOTHER AIR LINER ON THE WAY

REPUBLICAN LEADERS FIND TIMBER SCARCE FOR VICE PRESIDENT

WASHINGTON.—Tiptop Republican vice presidential timber is a commodity of which there is no present prospect of a surplus next year.

A blight appears to have stricken the fine forest of it, which seemed to be approaching maturity up to 16 or 18 months ago—not only checking its growth, but actually thinning it out.

As expressed by one of the G. O. P. Leaders with whom I happened to be talking recently, "It begins to look as if we should have to do considerable shopping around, to find a suitable candidate for second place on our 1932 ticket."

Vice President Curtis has not said so yet, but few politicians remain in doubt that he intends to seek his old seat in the senate, from Kansas, in preference to refining for the vice presidency again. A man of small private means, it is no secret that Curtis needs to hang onto a job, and cannot afford to take unnecessary risks of defeat. If Curtis chooses not to run, there are plenty of others who would be glad to take his place, risks and all. But a willingness to take risks is not quite the sum total of the G. O. P.'s management's requirements in aspirants for the nomination; it desires political strength also.

Senator James E. Watson of Indiana is understood to be desirous of selection as Mr. Hoover's running mate, but the G. O. P.'s managerial group is far from pleased with Watson's reason for wishing to be so designated.

Unless vice presidentially named, the Hoosier veteran faces a fight for senatorial re-election a year hence, and quite frankly admitting that he expects to be beaten anyway, is quoted as saying he would rather figure as having been dragged down by President Hoover than suffer the humiliation of being snowed under in his individual capacity.

Naturally a defeatist attitude of this sort does not appeal to administration advisers.

Of all the eligibles who have been suggested, indications are that the president's friends would be best pleased with Senator Dwight W. Morrow's name on the ballot, underneath the Californian's. The evidence, however, is equally conclusive that the senator's political mentors are urging him strenuously against accepting the hazard, to save himself for the presidential venture in 1936.

General Charles G. Dawes is mentioned as having been tempted, only to prove hopelessly resistant. Congressman John Q. Tilson of Connecticut, Republican floor leader in the house of representatives during the last and several preceding sessions, and now an aspirant for the speakership, succeeding the late Nicholas Longworth, though formerly vice presidentially ambitious, is reported now profoundly indifferent, on the subject.

Mr. Hoover often has been spoken of as favorable to Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley's nomination with him in 1932, but none of the more practical among the G. O. P. arrangement makers with whom I have conversed concerning him has displayed much enthusiasm for the Oklahomaan.

That Hurley is perhaps the handsomest man in the public eye of today they concede readily—after which they return to the discussion of the various candidates they really would like to see nominated.

Nevertheless, the war secretary is available. He would not hem and haw as some of the more cautious brethren do. He would run, if invited.

Young Teddy Roosevelt is prominently referred to, and by no means is the most improbable among the possibilities; nor would he necessarily be a bad choice. He made a poor start in New York politics a few years ago, but has done remarkably well as governor of Porto Rico. He has a magnificent background, of course, and with years, apparently has been developing. But whether he would accept or sidestep has yet to be determined.

"General Pershing would be fine" remarked a loyal Hooverite I met the other day.

Yes, but get him!

Others whom one hears hinted at include: Senator Charles L. McNary of Oregon, hitherto a dry, who has just declared for a referendum on the Eighteenth amendment; Senator Arthur Capper of Kansas, who has his present seat copper-riveted and would prefer to keep it, I would think, with Curtis' example before him; Congressman Hamilton Fish, Jr., of New York, the anti-Communist investigator; Postmaster General Walter F. Brown; Secretary of Agriculture Arthur M. Hyde; Hanford Mac Nider, former national commander of the American Legion, former assistant to assistant secretary of war and present minister to Canada; ex-Senator Walter E. Edge of New Jersey, now ambassador to France; Governor Louis L. Emmerson of Illinois, who vetoed the Sucker state legislature's last anti-prohibition bill; General James G. Harbord, president of the Radio Corporation of America.

Which ones among them would accept, if urged, however, and how many of them would strengthen the G. O. P. ticket is a mere matter of guesswork.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

By MRS. MARY MORTON

Peppers
The black and white peppercorns come from the same berry. The black peppercorn consists of the whole berry; the white peppercorn is made by partially or completely removing the outer husk. The most expensive grade is where all the seed-coats are off, leaving a pearly, hard, white product. The white is less pungent, stronger in flavor than the black. It is supposed to be less irritating to the walls of the stomach than black pepper. White peppercorns are desirable when color schemes, that is, when addition of black is less attractive.

Use Orange Juice
Orange juice as a substitute for vinegar will give a new and deliciously piquant flavor to French dressing. Select the thin-skinned yellow oranges when, as here, the amount of juice is the first consideration. These are always the juicier.

Soft Ginger Cookies.—One cup fat, one cup sugar, one-half cup molasses, one teaspoon ginger, two teaspoons soda, one egg, one teaspoon salt, one teaspoon cinnamon, three-fourths teaspoon vinegar, three-fourths teaspoon vinegar, three cups flour. Cream fat and sugar thoroughly. Add egg and molasses. Beat well. Add vinegar to evaporated milk, then pour into first mixture. Blend well. Sift flour, then measure. Resift with other dry ingredients into mixture. Drop from teaspoon onto oiled baking sheet. Bake in a moderate oven about 15 minutes.

Nut Bread.—One and one-half cups graham flour, one-half cup flour, one-half cup raisins, one and one-half teaspoons baking powder, one-half teaspoon soda, one-half teaspoon salt, one-half cup sugar, one-half cup evaporated milk, one-half cup water, one tablespoon vinegar, one-half cup nuts. Sift flour, then measure. Resift with baking powder, soda, salt and sugar. Add graham flour, raisins and nuts. Combine milk, water and vinegar and stir into first mixture. Pour into a well oiled bread pan and bake in a moderate oven 30 minutes.

Latest results of experimental work carried on with the experiment station at Wenatchee, Wash., indicate that from 40 to 50 well-formed leaves are necessary to develop an apple and furnish the proper amount of food reserve for the growth of the tree.

X-Ray Used In Skin Treatment

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Acne, that disease of the skin which consists of a pus infection of the sluggish oil glands of the skin, is very common. In this column yesterday and the day before was considered the treatment of the more or less simple cases.

All of the cases, however, are not simple. Often the infection, when it is of long standing, causes deep scarring of the skin, and the infection itself may be very deep-seated and stubborn.

Under such circumstances, indeed under all circumstances, when the conditions persist, the patient should consult a physician. Many of the patients become hopeless and despairing. For their benefit, it is well to let them know that great benefit can be given nearly every case.

Many patients with this condition are unaware of the value of X-ray treatments properly carried out. In the Vanderbilt Clinic, New York, 80 per cent of the cases are treated by the X-ray.

The X-ray is especially valuable in cases where "the comedones are numerous, large or hard, or the intervening skin is thickened," according to a well known textbook on the skin. Also where there is a deep-seated change in the skin with scarring and thickening. In slow, more or less stationary cases, but where improvement is not evident, accompanied by a good deal of oil in the skin, they are also indicated.

In certain cases X-rays should not be used. Mild cases are better treated by cleaning the skin, extracting the comedones and dietetic and general methods, as described yesterday. When the inflammation of the skin is very acute, it should subside before X-ray treatment is attempted. In cases when after three or four exposures to the X-ray no good results are obtained, their use should in most cases be abandoned. But this leaves four-fifths of the cases in which X-ray treatment is recommended.

X-ray treatment clears up more cases more rapidly than any other method. With proper supervision the disease disappears under X-ray treatment in three or four months.

Ultra violet light is also very valuable in many cases, but the results with the ultra violet light are not as good as with X-ray. Recurrences are more frequent with the ultra violet than with the X-rays. But in properly selected cases they are efficient and have their place in the treatment of the disease.

All methods of treatment, however, must be combined for the successful eradication of the disease. It tends to get better as time goes on, but for many young men and women it constitutes a greater problem than more serious diseases.

QUESTIONS FROM READERS
Mrs. M. E.: "In a recent article you mentioned dried milk preparations. Where can they be purchased? I cannot afford to keep ice and would like to use them in my tea."

Answer: There are various dried milks. They should be obtainable at any drug store or grocery. They are excellent for the purpose you mention.

Office Girl Must Watch Nails

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

How does a perfect gentleman discourage a pursuing lady without hurting her feelings? That's the neat little problem I'm supposed to answer for Bill.

"Dear Miss Lee: I am a young man very much in love with a young girl, and I know she loves me."

"There is another girl I know who says she loves me, and seems to be always in my way. Now the one I love says she will not tolerate it any longer if the other girl doesn't stop her flirtations with me."

"Please tell me how can I get rid of this latter one without hurting her too much and keep the love of my best girl?"

It's sort of a hard thing to do, isn't it, Bill, girls being what they are? However, I think that a girl who thrusts her young affections on a man without encouragement should be sport enough to take a broad hint without being unduly hurt. She probably won't take it in good part, however.

I'm strong for the modern girl, and think it is all right for her, even to indicate pretty strongly that she likes a chap, especially if he happens to be bashful and need a helping hand, but I am afraid women have not got quite to the point of taking dismissal in good part. They will learn in time that it's just as fair for a man to tell a girl who cares for him that he cannot love her "that way," as it is for her to say she cannot be more than a sister to him. At present not more than one girl in a hundred would be quite that sporting, I'm afraid.

However, in justice to your girl—the one you love and who loves you—you should give the other young woman such a broad hint as to your intentions that she will have no doubt at all but that you're "hooked." If she's hurt it's her own fault, as long as you haven't been encouraging her to think you like her much. You don't want to lose the girl, you know, and she has every right to think you do like this other one if you don't settle the matter.

"Dear Miss Lee: Please tell me what to do. I am so homesick for a real home. My father comes home from work intoxicated almost every night and is so cross it's hard for anyone to live with him. Everything I do seems to be wrong. I try to do little things to please him, but that doesn't do any good. I'm not allowed to go anywhere without some of the family. Mother and father don't want to go anywhere I do and won't let me go alone.

"I am only 16 and think I ought to get out with some young folks my own age once in a while. I do not care to go with boys, but do love to get out with a crowd of girls."

"The only enjoyment I get is in reading, and my father doesn't want me to even do that. I am ashamed to take my friends home for fear they will be insulted."

"Loveless Bird."

I hardly know what I can advise, Bird. Your people must care a lot for you or they wouldn't take such good care of you. That is one consolation. Your father's drinking is what makes him so irritable. I presume and it is hard to tell how you could get him to stop. There is no use talking about it except when he is sober and in a very good humor, and it's not always the wise thing even then.

You are getting older all the time, of course, and surely when you are a little older your people won't keep quite such a close watch over you. You can look forward to that time.

In the meantime keep on reading and try to read a good type of book so that you can have something worth while to think about. Also make friends outside, even if you can't go out with them or invite them to your home, and keep hoping that there will be a change for the better.

Pee Dee: Really, dear, it isn't any of your business if this boy you like took another girl home from a dance, is it? You are not engaged, I hope, as you are only 17. Don't mention the matter to him in any way, even if you do know all about his movements. Just be good pals and don't expect to monopolize his company.

DIMPLES read "Mere Male's" letter and declares men don't care a "snap of their fingers" for decent girls. She knows, as she's a girl who "never smoked or drank and never will," she thinks "Mere Male" is right about girls who smoke or go half dressed, but insists that if there are few "decent" girls, there is an equal dearth of decent boys.

The greatest fog duration was recorded at Seguin, Me., in 1907. It remained for 2,734 hours.

Pursuing Lady Problem

By GLADYS GLAD

We females have often been—in my opinion erroneously—called the "pursuing sex." But it seems as though we are about to give this unflattering title some foundation. For Paris informs us that the new craze to claim Milady's attention is "cat's-claw" finger nails.

These new "cat's-claw" finger nails are of an astonishing length, and greatly resemble the tapering finger appendages of the ancient Chinese. And for the Bows and Carbons, the Peggy Joys and Mrs. Rockers, they may be the very acme of smartness. But what bothers me is how those girls who have to bang away at the old typewriter, or give the dust pan and broom a daily workout are expected to get by with them.

The truth of the matter is that they are not. They're not even going to attempt to. Not if they're wise and sensible. For good tastes demand that when shaping the finger nails, you take into consideration not only the decrees of fashion and the shape of your hands, but also your mode of life, your daily habits.

Filing and typewriting are simply ruinous to extremely long finger nails. Housework is just as destructive. And because a broken nail takes so long to grow out, and is so disfiguring to the hand while it is growing out, it really pays to keep the nails a uniform and convenient length.

For the average business girl and housewife, nails shaped to about the contour of the finger tips are the most harmonious. The nails of should be filed first with a long, flexible file, and then shaped with an emery board to give them a perfectly smooth finish. They should not be filed down to the pink at the sides, but a small white rim should be permitted to remain.

The filing of the nails should always be done in an upward direction, toward the center. The file should be used on the under side of the nail, and the emery board on the edge, to prevent any splitting of the nails. And both the file and the emery board should be used on the nails daily to keep them always smooth-edged and of the correct and harmonious length.

SPORT SNAP SHOTS

FRAMED
by Phil

Fans who follow the great national game of baseball greedily accept all stories whether they are based on facts or fabrications if the yarns are about some favorite player.

Here's one that should qualify for membership in the Tall Story Club, but it is claimed to be the Gospel truth. In fact, Manager Billy Evans, of the Cleveland Indians, vouches for its veracity. It's about Earl Averill, the home run merchant of the Indians.

Just after the first game of a recent double-header between the Athletics and Indians began in Cleveland a feminine voice answered Mr. Evans cheery "hello" in the telephone at the club's office. Announcing herself by name, the unseen caller explained she had just been married and "I want Averill to hit a home run for me as a wedding present."

As the Indians came in for their turn at bat in the third, Manager Evans relayed the message personally to Earl.

Averill is of an obliging nature, so the story goes, and responded that he would do "anything for a newly-married couple."

Following Porter to bat in the inning, Averill smacked the required homer. The circuit blow incidentally provided two runs for the Indians, Porter having scored ahead of him. Then, to make doubly sure of giving perfect satisfaction, Earl duplicated the feat in the fifth stanza.

Averill, by the way, swears he never heard of the woman.

Part of the money he received as first prize for winning the Grand American Handicap trapezoidal title will be devoted to charity in his home town, according to an announcement made by the Rev. Garrison Roebuck, pastor of the United Brethren Church at McClure, O., a town of 450 inhabitants.

The Chicago Cubs were rightly named. They have not been acting like full-grown bears all season, but in the last series with the hapless Cincinnati Reds the nickname "Cubs" was certainly apt. The Reds beat them six straight times. Nevertheless Manager Dan Howley's dungoon dwellers are still nine or ten games back of seventh place. At that, Dan's observation the Reds are the best tail-end club the National League has had for many years perhaps borders on the truth.

ELEANOR MCKAY AND LAWRENCE HIBBERT ARE TENNIS CHAMPS

Survivors of an original field of twenty-eight entries, Miss Eleanor McKay and Lawrence Hibbert were crowned tennis champions of their respective divisions of the singles tennis tournament concluded Labor Day afternoon at the Xenia Country Club.

Miss McKay won the women's division of the tourney, defeating Mrs. Katherine Farrell in straight sets by scores of 6-0, 6-3 in the finals.

Hibbert also won a straight set victory in the men's final round, disposing of Hugh Espey by margins of 7-5, 6-3.

Although both were fatigued by their semi-final and final round matches, Miss McKay and Hibbert then played an exhibition match, the latter winning, 6-3, 6-4. Miss McKay had previously won her way into the feminine finals Monday by eliminating Miss Mary Davidson, 6-1, 6-3, while Mrs. Farrell had beaten Miss Margaret McKay in the semi-finals after a three-set match by scores of 7-5, 6-6, 6-2.

Hibbert's semi-final round opponent was Andrew Frazer, whom he defeated by scores of 6-3, 6-3. Espey had reached the men's finals at the expense of Edward Kraft, winning in three sets by 7-5, 4-6, 6-3.

ARRIVES HOME IN TIME FOR DRY RAID

William McCrossin selected an inopportune time to return to his home in Fairfield Monday night. Drawing up to the house in his auto, he discovered a liquor raid in progress, being conducted by Sheriff John Baughn, Deputy Forest Shoup and Road Patrolman L. A. Davis.

The officers transferred their search to the owner's auto, where in they discovered almost a gallon of liquor.

Arraigned Tuesday morning before Municipal Judge E. Dawson Smith, the Fairfield man pleaded guilty to possessing liquor, was fined $200 and costs and sent to jail until the assessment is paid.

Xenia Merchants Defeat Rest Haven Team

OBSERVE LABOR DAY WITH 8-7 TRIUMPH MONDAY AFTERNOON

Play First Away-From Home Game On Dayton Pike Diamond

Celebrating Labor Day, the Xenia Merchants eked out a laboriously earned 8 to 7 triumph over the Rest Haven Park ball club in their first away-from-home game in a number of years Monday afternoon on the Rest Haven diamond off the Dayton-Xenia Pike.

All varieties of baseball were provided by the two teams. For those who enjoy free hitting, it may be said the Xenia nine made a dozen hits and Rest Haven collected eleven. The fielding was sloppy. There were ten errors, four by the Merchants and six by the home team.

Trailing by one run as they went to bat for the last time in the first half of the ninth, the Merchants staged a garrison finish, chasing across two runs, just enough to win.

Jasper Ankeney, pitching for the Merchants, was greeted by a rousing five-run rally in the first round, but thereafter was effective, except for solitary runs added by Rest Haven in the seventh and eighth stanzas. Xenia kept peppering R. Brill, Rest Haven hurler, picking up a run here and another run there until the stage was set for the winning two-run rally in the ninth. In this round, Russ walked, Marshall singled and Durnbaugh doubled.

Although allowing twelve hits Brill struck out nine batters while Ankeney whiffed six. Johnson, Xenia outfielder, and N. Murrell, Rest Haven infielder, became involved in an argument in the fourth and both were banished.

Marshall topped the Xenia offensive with three singles. He also stole two of the nine bases the Merchants swiped. Durnbaugh poked, if that is the proper word, a double and triple. L. Glass laced out three singles for Rest Haven.

N. Y. STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—The selling wave which carried all sections of the market to lower price levels today was a continuance of last week's reactionary move. Disappointment at the failure of the recovery to show themselves on the industrial horizon and a lack of interest on the part of investment buyers were the principal factors blocking the road to recovery in stocks.

FOUR SOFTBALL GAMES FEATURE NEW JASPER HOLIDAY PROGRAM

Thirty-seven innings of softball, divided into four full games; one a ten-inning affair, were provided for the entertainment of fans who turned out for a novelty softball jamboree staged at New Jasper as a Labor Day feature Monday afternoon.

Starting off the afternoon's festivities, the Stevenson Road team walloped the Mt. Tabor Flyers, 17 to 10. O. Luttrell pitching for the winners and Thomas hurling for the Flyers.

Appearing next on the program, New Jasper triumphed over Gunnersville, 11 to 6 behind the pitching of Ramsay. Guthrie worked on the mound for Gunnersville.

The Paintersville Famous Autos required ten innings to defeat the Dayton Wetzels, 9 to 8, in the third contest. "Atlas" Smith twirled for the Autos and Rider for Dayton.

Winners of their first game, New Jasper and Stevenson Road clashed in a fourth game of the day with New Jasper winning, 9 to 5. Bob Luttrell hurled for the losers and Ramsay, who had already pitched a full nine-inning game, returned to the mound and hurled nine more innings for New Jasper.

The six teams participating in the jamboree were paired off to play four games.

Separate tournaments for men and women were held as a feature of Labor Day holiday golfing activities at the Xenia Country Club Monday.

An eighteen-hole handicap tourney for men drew twenty-seven entries and two golfers tied for first place. E. H. Heathman and Edward Flynn each had a net score of 76 after deduction of their handicaps. Flynn had the low gross score of 87 for the tournament and S. M. McKay was second with a gross score of 88. The next lowest net score was a 77 credited to W. C. Downes. Golf balls as prizes were awarded the three entrants with the best net scores.

Eleven women golfers competed in a nine-hole "blind par" tourney for feminine players. The entrants were permitted to fix their own handicaps. Blind par was revealed to be 35 strokes and Mrs. Mary Meredith, who selected a handicap of twenty strokes and shot a 57, was declared the prize winner of the event. Her net score of 37 was the nearest approach to blind par. Miss Betty Kingsbury was in charge of the women's tourney and S. M. McKay supervised play in the men's division.

Delayed since last Wednesday by adverse weather, the singles tennis tournament at Cedarville, fostered by Coach Marvin Borst, of Cedarville College, finally got under way Labor Day afternoon on the college clay courts with two first round matches being played.

The tourney, limited to Cedarville amateur racquet wielders, attracted ten entrants and the remaining three first round matches were scheduled for Tuesday afternoon.

Greer McCallister and Bob Harriman survived their opening matches Monday. Extended to three sets, McCallister eliminated Dallas Marshall, 6-2, 1-6, 6-4, while Harriman advanced without trouble at the expense of Harvey Auld, winning in straight sets, 6-1, 6-0.

A suitable trophy will be awarded the tourney winner, Coach Borst announces.

Hopeful of success on the gridiron this fall, candidates for Cedarville College's football eleven were scheduled to be assembled Tuesday afternoon for first practice of the season. Coach Marvin Borst anticipates a fair-sized squad this season. With seven lettermen returning, the Cedarville mentor is also banking heavily upon new prospects to plug up the holes left by departing veterans of last season.

The Theater

And now a parson joins the Hollywood parade. The Rev. William Tiernan, pastor of a Hollywood church, has donned grease paint to portray a minister in Radio Pictures' inquisitive problem drama, "Are These Our Children?"

Besides the money he will get out of it, the Rev. Tiernan seeks from motion picture work a knowledge of the acting art. He considers it a legitimate tool of the ministry.

"After all," he declares, "the films and the church are alike in that they both play upon the emotions. The difference is that the films drop the emotions after they are created, while the church controls and guides them."

"The theater," he continues, "got its start at the altar. In the dim ages the church offered the only form of mass entertainment. Its services were made to contain the dramatic elements of mystery and suspense.

"Every good preacher today is a good actor. Of course, he substitutes gospel for make-believe, but he must have the ability to sway his audience."

The minister will not quit motion pictures after one part. He aspires to continue his histrionic education for some time to come.

Fifty stenographers apply for every job available at the movie studios. Some merely are attracted by the glamor of Hollywood, but others are ambitious girls, seeking a stepping stone to better things. A few have realized this ambition. Dorothy Arzner, the director and Arzner Brand Leahy, the scenarist, both started as Paramount typists. Miss Leahy thinks the stenographer is in an ideal position to learn screen material, production costs, camera angles and the many details that her flying pencil records in the course of the day's work.

tremendous length of the flight itself, have combined to balk all attempts in the past to bridge the ocean without a stop.

Two of these attempts were made during the last twelve months in the plane in which Moyle and Allen are flying.

Lieutenant Harold Gatty, who with Wiley Post recently established a new round the world record, tried repeatedly to make the flight with Harold Bromley last year, but failed.

More recently, Lieutenant Thomas Ash of the United States navy attempted the flight but was unable to get his plane into the air because of its heavy load.

Both experienced pilots and navigators, Moyle and Allen planned to alternate at the controls during the flight, enabling them to snatch uninterrupted periods of rest. They left well-equipped in the matter of provisions, carrying four fried chickens, four boxes of sandwiches, four thermos bottles of water, one bottle of coffee and one bottle of tea.

Moyle and Allen hope to average 100 miles an hour, and were convinced that their sturdy plane would carry them successfully through wind, rain and fog.

"Our ship holds the world's weight carrying record for any single motored plane," Moyle said just before the departure. "We'll get off successfully and we'll stay up until we're there."

Moyle and Allen were banking heavily on the improvements they had effected in the plane's equipment since their arrival in Japan. They estimated that the renovations, which included engine alterations as well as certain changes to the fuselage and tail, cost in the neighborhood of $10,000.

Co-operating to the fullest possible extent, Japanese authorities instructed all wireless stations and lighthouses to keep a constant watch for the plane, but did not expect to hear any news during the crossing. Moyle and Allen sacrificed a radio set in order to utilize all possible space and weight for their gasoline supply.

Veteran of three attempted Pacific crossings, the Moyle-Allen plane now bears its third name—Clasina Madge, christened for the daughter of its owner, John Buffell of Tacoma, Washington. It was first known as the City of Tacoma and Lieutenant Ash called it The Pacific.

FOR HIGHER TAX

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 8.—The Mexican government has under consideration a proposal urging abolishment of internal revenue taxes in favor of a higher income tax. The National Chamber of Commerce has repeatedly petitioned the government to carry out the plan, arguing that suppression of the internal revenue stamp system not only would prove a boost to national industries, but that it would effect a large saving in administrative expenditures.

PROVE to yourself that GILLETTE'S BLUE SUPER-BLADE

gives you far greater shaving comfort for only a few cents more

GILLETTE firmly believes the new Blue Super-Blade, now made in addition to the regular Gillette blade, is absolutely without equal. The proof of this rests entirely with you. You can try the new blade at our risk—use it under any conditions—and decide for yourself.

The Gillette Super-Blade is blue, inclosed in a blue package wrapped with Cellophane. You can instantly identify it—on your dealer's counter or in your safety razor when you shave. It is distinctly different in appearance and performance. Every shave is far smoother and cleaner, easier, quicker and more satisfactory in every way.

Gillette manufacturing methods were completely changed to produce the Blue Super-Blade. Under the new system quality is automatically controlled and never varies. All blades are uniform in keenness and shaving results. Each shave is as smooth and comfortable as the one before.

Try the Gillette Blue Super-Blade on our guarantee of satisfaction. Buy a package now—before it slips your mind—and try a blade or two. If every shave isn't smooth and satisfying—if you don't think the blades are worth their slight extra price—return the package to your dealer and get all your money back.
